

United States
Department of State

Distinguished Honor Award

is presented to

Lincoln P. Bloomfield Jr.

In recognition of your distinguished service to the Department of State and to the national interests of the United States of America. Throughout the last four years as Assistant Secretary of State for Political-Military Affairs, you have served with extraordinary distinction and exemplary leadership and management skills to reshape and refurbish one of the largest bureaus in the Department, while developing and cementing the very best relations with America's Armed Forces and the institutions and people who make them up. In that regard, your contributions to the nation's security have been unparalleled and fundamental to winning the war on terror.

May ~~TRANS~~ [Signature]

January 2005

Secretary of State